
FACTS AT YOUR FINGERTIPS: ASSUMPTION PROGRAM OF LOANS FOR EDUCATION, ACADEMIC YEAR 1999-2000

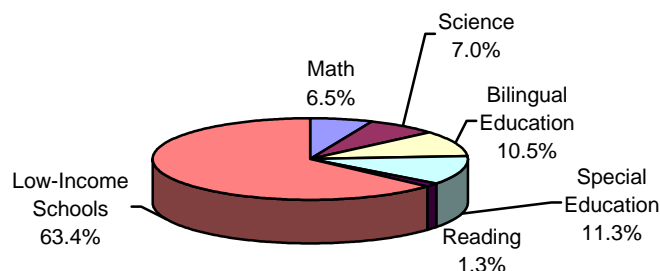

The Assumption Program of Loans for Education (APLE) was established in 1983 to provide loan assumption benefits to credentialed teachers. APLE was modified in 1985 by Senate Bill (SB) 1208 to focus on non-credentialed individuals who were training to become fully credentialed teachers who would teach in subject areas where critical teacher shortages had been identified or in schools serving a large population of students from low-income families. SB 1564 (Statutes of 1998) further altered APLE by increasing the number of awards from 500 to 4,500; increasing the maximum amount of benefits paid from $8,000 to $11,000; and extending the number of years an applicant must agree to teach in a public school from three to four years. For 1999-2000, there are 5,500 awards available. Of those, 500 are to be allocated to school districts for the recruitment of out-of-state teachers. The out-of-state allocation process is under development and warrants will not be issued until the 2000-2001 academic year.
